Background

The Indian Institute of Science Education and Research (IISER) Kolkata and the Satikanta Guha Foundation came to an agreement in 2014 that the Foundation would set up a school within the IISER Kolkata campus (Mohanpur) for the benefit of the children of the members of the staff of IISER as also of people living in neighbouring areas. While IISER would provide the requisite land, building and infrastructure, the Foundation would run and administer the School. Hence, it was decided to call the school: Garden High School – IISER Kolkata Campus.

The School, comprising only eight classes from Nursery I to Class V, was inaugurated on 30 March 2015 by Prof R. N. Mukherjee, Director, IISER, in the presence of guardians, members of staff of IISER Kolkata, Garden High School (Kolkata), Garden High International School (Kolkata), Garden High School – IISER Kolkata Campus and guests. The School began holding classes from the next day, i.e. 31 March 2015.

Garden High School – IISER Kolkata Campus is an unaided institution run and administered by Satikanta Guha Foundation, which has already established and is managing two other educational institutions at Kolkata: Garden High School and Garden High International School. Garden High School is affiliated to the CISCE, New Delhi, and its pupils sit for the ICSE (Class X) and ISC (Class XII) Examinations. Garden High International School is affiliated to Edexcel (formerly London Examinations) and Cambridge Assessment International Education (CAIE), University of Cambridge, UK. Its pupils take the IGCSE (formerly O-Level), Advanced Subsidiary (AS) Level and Advanced (A) Level Examinations of these Boards directly through the School.

For further information regarding IISER Kolkata, see page 27.

The School

Garden High School – IISER Kolkata Campus is an English-medium coeducational school that at present comprise classes from Nursery (3+ year age group) to Class VIII. The aim is to upgrade the School to Class XII eventually.

However, though affiliation has been sought from CBSE (Central Board of Secondary Education), Delhi, for introducing Classes IX and X, the matter is now pending a resolution in the Hon'ble High Court at Calcutta.

The School is run on the same ideals and principles as its sister institutions, for these ideals and principles have already earned them a high reputation in academic and co-curricular activities alike.

The first Academic Session of the School commenced 31 March 2015.

Location

The school building with a covered area of about 51,700 sft is located on a three-acre plot within the IISER Kolkata campus.

Foundation Day

03 November is observed as the Foundation Day of the School, for it was on 03 November 2014 that it was formally resolved that the first Academic Year of the School would begin in March 2015.

The School Motto

Let knowledge lead to wisdom, and wisdom to emancipation.

The school motto echoes what many thinkers of many lands and many ages have said in many different ways: knowledge is not enough, and mere knowledge may dazzle and make one blind. Learning must lead to wisdom which gives one the capacity to see things in a proper perspective, and enables one to grow out of oneself. It is through wisdom that emancipation comes. Very few can attain it, but it is this straining after a goal, knowing that it will probably always be beyond one's reach, that makes a man, a man.

Aims

Ideal education has no ulterior purpose. It is not concerned with teaching the techniques of how to do well in examinations. It must not also be confused with training for a profession: how to produce a good doctor, lawyer, or an engineer. Nor does it intend to provide a ready-made moral or intellectual outfit that will help a pupil get through life. It is concerned with 'the pupil himself, in what he is thinking, in his quality of mind, in his immortal soul'.

At the same time, we cannot ignore the fact that the prevalent socio-economic conditions of our country have made the chief, and perhaps only, aim of education, at least at the school level, the training of a pupil to pass examinations so that he may secure admission to an institution that will, in turn, train him for a profession. Teaching has thus been reduced to a mere imparting of knowledge and training. Following suit, learning has become a mere acquisition, without assimilation, of knowledge and of an ability to use skills blindly, without imagination or innovation. It is a reality that cannot be ignored and must be dealt with on its own terms.

The School thus aims at a compromise between the ideal and what is practicable in existing conditions.

Garden High is thus a school

- where pupils come first, and all else later.
- which thinks that education is concerned with pupils as persons, not with how they can be trained for a career.
- which believes that a school should be ‘training minds, not stuffing them’.
- which, therefore, encourages pupils to think for themselves, and tries to kindle their curiosity, so that they may venture out on their own beyond the beaten track of the syllabi.
- which does not try to impress with inessentials at the cost of what is essential: academic integrity and excellence.

Teaching: The Principle

At the nursery level, the child should be gradually made aware of the world outside him, so that he may by slow degrees stop being concerned with only his own needs and start thinking of other living beings and things around him, like his family and friends, plants, flowers, animals, and birds. This process of growing out of oneself must be made happy and pleasant through an abundance of colour, play, music, rhyme, and rhythm.

At the primary level, the imparting of knowledge in various forms has to begin through the study of languages, literature and other subjects. This acquisition of knowledge will obviously grow in volume and substance as the pupil begins his ascent up the steps of the secondary and higher secondary stages. What must not be lost sight of is that as the input of knowledge increases, so must the emphasis on the training of the mind – the power to think and judge for oneself. A responsible school or teacher must never forget that there is no necessary correlation between knowledge and wisdom, and that without wisdom one cannot be emancipated, i.e. freed from the bondage of the here and the now.

So, pupils should be encouraged to ask questions, voice their doubts, verify what they are told and taught. They must not be urged to accept at face value whatever they read or hear. They should be gently led to evaluate things in the light of their own experience, but at the same time be made aware of how these same things have been assessed by mankind over the centuries. Teachers must try to instil in the pupils a sense of perspective, a sense of right and wrong, and to make the pupils think of others more than of themselves, for that way lies wisdom which instils in man an urge to try and break out of the shell of a mundane self-centred existence into a more glorious world of awareness and sympathy with all that makes up this universe.

Teaching: The Method

A. The Method (during the suspension of normal classes)

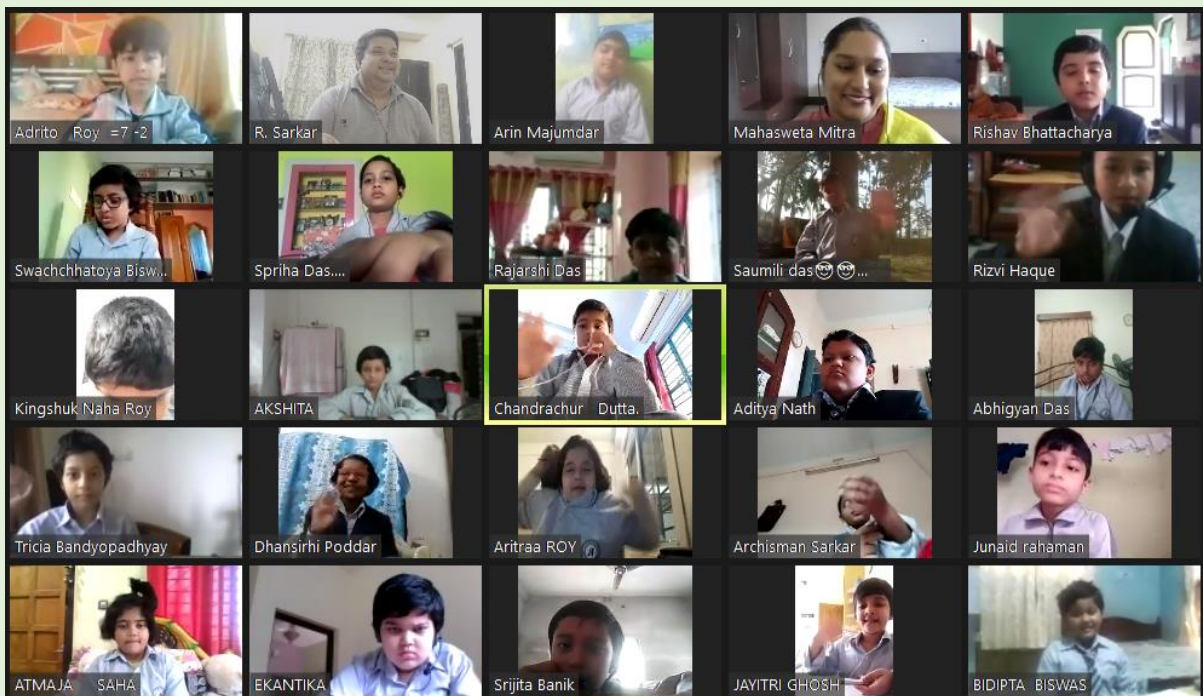

So long as we cannot emerge out of the shadow of the pandemic (COVID-19), the School will be compelled to follow an empirical method of online teaching that is modified and updated constantly to suit the needs of pupils of all classes without subjecting them to undue strain and pressure. This method combines actual teaching, providing study material, setting assignments and continuous evaluation. All efforts are also being made to conform to the guidelines of the appropriate authorities.

Regular training by their colleagues (the computer teachers and technical staff) and consultants, specially appointed for the purpose, has familiarized our teachers with the different aspects of online teaching, including holding online examinations and assessment and evaluation. So, the School will not only continue with this method of teaching as long as necessary, but might also combine it with actual classroom teaching on a regular basis even when normalcy returns.

Laptop/Desktop and Internet Facility

It is strongly recommended that a pupil be given easy but supervised access to a laptop/desktop and internet facility at home, so that he may attend online classes conducted by the School as and when necessary.

The schedule (days and timings) of such classes will be announced beforehand and guardians should see to it that their wards attend such classes and complete and submit the assignments within the time limit prescribed.

B. The Method (followed before the pandemic and to be followed when normalcy returns)

Since formal education must start with knowledge, this School takes all possible steps to ensure that knowledge at all levels is imparted with care. Uniformity and accuracy are ensured through drawing up of lesson plans. Each teacher has to make sure that a pupil has not only understood but also assimilated what he has read and heard.

Depending on the subject concerned, the first stage of such assessment may consist of oral and/or blackboard work. Before a pupil is asked to do any written work, answers to probable questions are discussed as far as possible. This is followed by class assignments which are corrected in detail, corrections of serious errors being entered in the body of the exercise itself. The corrected assignments are then sent to parents for scrutiny and signature.

Very little homework is set, and it consists mostly of handwriting, correction of errors, revision of work done in class, and learning specified lines of a poem by heart, etc. In the case of slow learners, specific tasks may be set by the teachers concerned.

Guardians are earnestly requested not to help pupils with these tasks, for the errors committed help a teacher to understand the actual progress made by the pupil. All that a guardian needs to do is to supervise: see to it that the pupil does the work that he has been asked to do.

See also Assessment of Pupils, page 24.

As long as the restriction imposed by the concerned authorities on holding classes in the usual manner remains in force, it will obviously not be possible to follow the methods described under Assessment of Pupils (page 24).

If, during an academic year, it is not possible to hold any examination requiring the presence of all pupils of a particular class on the same day and time at the school premises, assessment/evaluation of pupil's performance will be made in accordance with directions/guidelines issued by the concerned authorities. In the absence of any such direction/guideline, the School shall devise its own method of assessment and evaluation based on class assignments and general performance throughout the year.

Guardians are, therefore, requested to see to it that their wards follow the directions given by teachers during online classes, complete the assignments set and upload them to the School Student Portal as directed.

General Supervision & Teacher-Pupil Ratio

It should also be made clear that by 'academic excellence' we do not mean securing some of the top ten or twenty ranks in a public examination. Though affiliation to any board or council means working within a prescribed syllabus, the School will do its best to educate its pupils in the true sense of the term: teaching them to think independently and rationally. Pupils will always be encouraged to interact with teachers both inside and outside the classroom. To make this interaction easy and possible, the teacher-pupil ratio will be about 1:30. Pupils will have free access at all times to their teachers, who will give them all the attention and help they need to solve their academic problems as also any others that they may have. Though pupils will spend only a part of the day in school, the aim will be to make them feel at home and encourage them to open out and grow naturally.

Remedial Classes & Special Training

The School wants a pupil to excel as much as his parents do. While every effort will be made at school to provide a pupil with the guidance and attention that he needs, at least one of the parents must give some time to him, not only to ensure that he revises the lessons taught in class or completes the tasks set, but to give him the company he needs. It must be remembered that a pupil will spend only a limited time at school, and many a problem can be nipped in the bud if only a parent spends a little time with the young, curious, and demanding learner at home. This has become all the more necessary in the modern social structure, particularly with the decline of the joint-family system. It is essential that a parent knows who the pupil's companions are and how he is spending his time.

A pupil should not need any special help at home. Additional guidance or 'special training', if and when necessary, will be provided by the School by way of remedial classes at no extra charge. These classes will be designed and held in accordance with the special needs of each child or a group of children – either in parallel with general classes or separately, on Saturdays and/or holidays, on the school premises or at the residence of a teacher of the School. Guardians are requested to cooperate with us in this matter by ensuring that a pupil attends these classes regularly. We would also like a guardian to let the pupil work independently, for errors, perhaps more than correctness, serve as true indices of proficiency.

Guardians must understand that a recommendation to attend these classes must not be taken as an unfavourable assessment of a pupil's merit. On the contrary, such a recommendation assumes that a pupil has the capacity to do better and all that he needs is some special attention or guidance in some specific areas, and that also only for some time.

Medium of Instruction

Since the medium of instruction is English, English, both spoken and written, is taught with particular care, for without an adequate proficiency in the language, no child can follow a lesson, no matter what the subject.

Vernacular Languages

Bengali and Hindi are taught with utmost care, and all efforts are made to make pupils aware of their heritage as Indians. At the same time, as the motto of the School – Knowledge, Wisdom, Emancipation – makes it clear, pupils will be encouraged to think of themselves as belonging to the common race of man and shed all racial, social, and religious prejudices.

Satikanta Guha 01 June 1910 – 08 January 1991

Satikanta Guha was born in Sunamganj, Sylhet (now in Bangladesh). He was educated at Dhaka Collegiate School, Dhaka, and Hare School and Presidency College, Kolkata. He stood first in First Class in the LLB Examination of Calcutta University.

Though his subject of formal study was history, his real love from childhood was literature. From the age of 15 he started editing journals for children: first Benu, and then Chitra. This brought him into close personal contact with Abanindranath Thakur and Dakshinaranjan Mitra Majumdar. Later he also edited Rangmashal for some time. This well-known journal for the young had earlier published his immensely popular but incomplete serial, Amarlata. He set up several publishing houses, publishing books that included Abanindranath's Rajkahini, Dakshinaranjan's First Boy and Last Boy, and Shibram Chakraborty's Baadi Thekey Paliye.

Financial reasons forced him to join a commercial firm, but he soon gave it up, and with his brother Banikanta founded the Purba Parishad, a cultural organization devoted mainly to dance and drama. A ballet troupe under his direction visited Ceylon (Sri Lanka) at the invitation of that country's government. But once again he had to take up a job to earn his livelihood. In 1954 he finally turned away from the world of commerce, and in association with his wife Prity Lata founded South Point.

South Point attracted many talented and gifted personalities as teachers: Utpal Dutt, Kamal Kumar Majumdar, Sekhar Chattopadhyay, Mangalacharan Chattopadhyaya, N. Viswanathan, Surojit Sen, and Gita Ghatak among others. In a little over two decades, South Point came to be acknowledged as the world's largest school in terms of the number of pupils enrolled for an academic year. It enjoyed that distinction for many years. South Point also became synonymous with academic excellence, for year after year its pupils secured ranks among the first ten in all public examinations at the school level.

With South Point firmly established, he turned to his first love: literature. He received the Mouchak Award for his contribution to children's literature, and the Rabindra Puraskar for his novel, Natyakar.

Blessed with a rare insight, he could recognize and appreciate both talent and greatness. Author, painter, singer, dancer, actor, craftsman, scholar – whoever came to him for help, got it ungrudgingly. Those who were genuinely gifted found in him a kindred spirit who befriended, encouraged, and helped them in distress and need. Vishmadeb Chattopadhyay, Gopesh Chakraborty, Subho Thakur, Guru Gopinath, Madhav Menon, Kelu Nair, Sukumar De Sarkar, Indrani Rehman, and Uday Shankar were only a few. During his lifetime South Point was a home to many organizations, like the Little Theatre Group, Ali Akbar College of Music, Ballygunge Cultural Seminar, and Guru Thankamani Kutty's school of dance.

He was most unfortunate in birth, life, and death, in that he was born a Bengali, and lived, worked, and died in West Bengal.

Indian Institute of Science Education & Research (IISER)

The Ministry of Education (previously MHRD), Government of India, has set up several Indian Institutes of Science Education & Research to promote quality education and research in basic sciences by appointing established scholars as faculty members so that they may continue working in their respective fields of specialization and at the same time teach, motivate, and guide students interested in studying and taking up research.

The strength of IISER Kolkata lies in its talented students, faculty of excellent academic repute, state-of-the-art research facilities, and the flexibility of the academic programs.

The Institute offers a BS-MS (a 5-year Integrated Masters) program, involving two years of compulsory exposure to all the science disciplines: Physics, Chemistry, Mathematics, Biology, Earth and Planetary Sciences, and Computer Programming and Electronics, followed by two years of study in a 'major' discipline, and finally a year devoted to research leading to a thesis (Masters). In addition to the BS-MS program, the Institute also offers a post-BSc Integrated PhD program to induct talented students early into research. In addition, there are the 2-year MS (thesis) program for BTech students and the regular post-MSc PhD program. PhD programs are specifically focused on cutting-edge, competitive research.

Satikanta Guha Foundation

Satikanta Guha Foundation is a charitable society, registered with the Registrar of Societies, West Bengal, and the Income-tax authorities u/ss 12A and 80G of the IT Act, 1961. It is also registered under the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Act, 1976.

The Foundation was established in September 1991 in memory of Satikanta Guha who had expired in January that year.

Since the names of Satikanta Guha and his wife Prity Lata Guha, the first Secretary of the Foundation, are indissolubly linked with South Point as its Founder and Associate Founder, the first members of the Foundation decided that education should be the main sphere of the Foundation's activities.

1. GARDEN HIGH SCHOOL

The Foundation began its activities by rendering financial assistance to various centres of learning, educational institutions, and needy and meritorious pupils. However, it was increasingly felt that the Foundation should be more actively involved in promoting education by establishing a school. That would indeed be the best way to honour the man whose name it bears and to commemorate his contribution to the cause of education. The project of setting up a school, comprising Nursery, Primary, Secondary, and Higher Secondary Departments, was thus undertaken in 1999 and Garden High School was established.

2. GARDEN HIGH INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL

The second project – involving the setting up of an international school – was undertaken in April 2013. Garden High International School (GHIS), comprising Grades IX & X and Advanced Subsidiary & Advanced Level classes (equivalent to Classes XI & XII of CISCE), started functioning from 7 April 2014. Class VIII (Fundamental Level) was introduced from the academic year 2018–19.

The School is now affiliated to Edexcel (previously London Examinations) and Cambridge Assessment International Education (CAIE).

GHIS observes 30 July, the day on which Prity Lata Guha was born, as its Foundation Day.

3. GARDEN HIGH SCHOOL – IISER KOLKATA CAMPUS

The Foundation has set up a school on the campus at Mohanpur (near Kalyani) of IISER (Indian Institute of Science Education and Research) Kolkata. This School, which started functioning from 31 March 2015, now comprises classes from Nursery I to Class VIII. Affiliation has been sought from CBSE (Central Board of Secondary Education), New Delhi, and the matter is awaiting a resolution in the Hon'ble High Court at Calcutta.
